

Surveying microbial communities and discovering new organisms

By oversampling GSTs from a community (even a complex one), a survey of microbes and their relative abundances can be conducted, even for organisms whose genomes are presently unknown.

